Residents to Decide: In or Out

READY TO VOTE

(Dave Dornlas Photo)

Mrs. Linda Rice, left, and Mrs. Lorraine Dekker, right, are among the residents of Section 6A planning to vote Jan. 25 to 27 on whether to terminate the covenants and restrictions governing their subdivision. If the vote to terminate carries, Section 6A would be the first of the 13 Westlake subdivisions to drop out of the Westlake Subdivisions Improvement Association. Looking on with only mild interest is Mrs. Dekker's year-old daughter, Danielle.

30 Years of Regulation on Line in First Westlake Vote

Many years of feuding over trees, bushes and fences will culminate in Westlake's first vote this month on the covenants and restrictions that have governed the Daly City neighborhood for 30 years.

If a majority of homeowners in one of the area's 13 subdivisions vote Jan. 25-27 to terminate the restrictions, they will be the first to drop out of the Westlake Subdivisions Improvement Association.

WSIA is the homeowners' group that has kept a close eye on Westlake for the past three decades, making sure that residents maintain their yards, limit the construction of their homes and abide by strict rules governing flora and fauna on the premises.

Some residents willingly plunk down the mandatory $12 annual dues that WSIA charges, believing that the association's stringent requirements enhance the property values of everyone.

Other Westlake homeowners, like Ursula Deutsch, call the covenants and restrictions "involuntary servitude."

WSIA took her sister, Hanna McEvoy, to court over a birch tree and hedge Mrs. McEvoy and her husband planted in front of their home at 242 Wilshire Ave. Although WSIA won, the McEvoys are seeking an appeal of the decision.

WSIA has fought other court battles over ivy, rock statuary and a proposed sundeck.

Mrs. Deutsch and Mrs. McEvoy are founding members of the Committee to Free Westlake, which is urging residents to vote down the covenants and restrictions.

Each of the subdivisions has only one chance every 10 years to do so.

Section 6A's chance occurs this month.

WSIA's board of directors decided to allow the 143 homeowners in 6A to vote on the restrictions after some 6A residents expressed a desire to have them removed on the very last day, Jan. 4, before 6A's covenants would have been automatically renewed for another 10 years.

Mrs. Deutsch is certain that WSIA's decision to have the first election also was influenced by her report that a majority of 6A residents want the restrictions lifted.

Before WSIA announced it would hold an election, the Committee to Free Westlake collected its own ballots from 6A homeowners.

WSIA by-laws require any ballots to be "duly executed and recorded," so the committee took those ballots to the county recorder's office shortly before Christmas.

Informed by the county that the ballots have to be notarized, the committee presently is urging resi-

Fidelinos Stay — For Now

Angel and Eresvita Fidelino, the Daly City couple threatened with deportation back to the Philippines, won't be going anywhere for a while.

Angel, 73, was hospitalized last Friday after a doctor diagnosed congestive heart failure.

Although she also is ill, his 71-year-old wife refused to leave his bedside at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City during most of the weekend.

The couple's son, Antonio Fidelino, said the Immigration and Naturalization Service agreed to postpone legal proceedings on the couple's status in the U.S. until after Angel Fidelino gets out of the hospital.

Previously, the Immigration and Naturalization Service ordered the elderly couple to post $6,000 in public charge bonds by Jan. 15 or face an exclusion hearing.

In an exclusion hearing an immigration judge determines whether an alien may continue to reside in the U.S. or whether he must return to his homeland.

Immigration authorities seized the Fidelinos' alien registration receipt cards and passports Nov. 7 as they were attempting to re-enter the U.S. after a two-month visit to the Philippines.

The reason given was that the Filipinos are likely to become public charges, since both collected Supplemental Security Income (SSI) and Medicaid benefits for two years while living in the U.S.

Antonio, whose family claims it can't afford to pay the $6,000 required in lieu of an exclusion hearing, had warm thanks for individuals who have offered money and other help since their plight was publicized last week.

Angel and Eresvita Fidelino are permanent resident aliens who have lived in Daly City 6-1/2 years. Five of their children are U.S. citizens.

During World War II, Angel Fidelino was part of an American-recognized guerilla movement that fought the Japanese.

D.C. Defends Fund Format

Citizens pleaded with the Daly City City Council at a study session Monday to open up the city's federal dole-out procedures and to cover up its utility lines.

Speaking on behalf of the Original Daly City Protective Association, Tom Adams accused the council of violating federal laws that govern the dispersal of Housing and Community Development Act funds.

Daly City now is determining which community groups will receive its $791,000 in 1979-80 HCDA funds.

Adams, an attorney with the Legal Aid Society, said Daly City is failing to involve all of the city's neighborhoods in sessions on HCDA funding. He also accused the city of failing to appoint adequate numbers of low- and moderate-income persons to the decision-making committees.

Adams concluded that the city, therefore, could be subject to a federal lawsuit.

City Attorney Albert Polonsky replied that the Department of Housing and Urban Development has approved the process under which Daly City awards its HCDA funds.

Adams said ODCPA is not threatening the city with a lawsuit but, rather, is acting with the hope that the inequities might be resolved.

At the council's urging, Polonsky agreed to review the matter with Adams.

Two members of the Parks and Recreation Commission asked the city to investigate alternate ways to pay for undergrounding of overhead power lines in Hillside Park that they deem hazardous.

Bud Durham, vice chairman of the commission, said the lines could kill children flying kites in the park.

He and Al Kane, chairman of the commission, said they felt the developer of the nearby Blossom Valley subdivision should pay the $170,000 tab for burying the wires.

They objected to paying for it out of the $400,000 sum allotted by the city for the complete development of the park.

Ken Johnson, district marketing supervisor for Pacific Gas and Electric Co., said it is not the developer's responsibility to pay for the undergrounding.

Welbon Asks New Meeting Place: Letter Criticized

Eddie C. Welbon's weekly appearance before the Daly City City Council took a different tack Monday.

Welbon and Clara Haynes, his administrative aide at the Daly City Multi-Purpose and Educational Service Center, Inc., began by asking the council to allow them to have the organization's meetings at the city's community center.

Welbon said that having the meetings at the center would prove to his critics the organization does have open sessions.

Mayor William Schumacher referred Welbon's request to the city staff, then began criticizing Welbon for the first time. His comments concerned a letter recently circulated in Daly City.

The mimeographed sheet, which begins, "Dear Parents," asks "all black and minority people of Daly City" to help keep the Multi-Purpose Center going. It is signed by Welbon, Mrs. Haynes and "R. Kikanza, community organizer."

After Welbon admitted distributing the letter, Schumacher said he was disturbed by the emphasis on black and other minority persons.

Referring to the youth employment program the city helped fund, the mayor said, "The program we wanted to assist you in was for all unemployed teen-agers in the area, rather than one racial or ethnic group."

Schumacher explained that federal and state funding guidelines forbid discriminating in favor of particular races.

Welbon replied, "I'm a Christian man, No. 1, and I think my personality reflects that I have no prejudice at all."

He added that he would "clear up" the problem.

Until recently, Welbon's youth employment program was funded with federal Comprehensive and Employment Training Act money.

The county Board of Supervisors cut off funding this year.

FAREWELL TO MISSION STREET

By TERRY DAVENPORT

Rumbling along Mission Street in his four-wheel-drive truck with wide-tread tires, a huge black monstrosity that he fondly calls "the family car," Don Ciucci catches sight of someone in his rear view mirror and lurches over to the side.

For several minutes he leans back in his seat and puffs on a cigarette while keeping a steady eye on a local resident who is ambling down the street.

When his prey disappears behind a herd of cars, Ciucci jams the gearshiftinto first and charges after the man. "I know he's up to something," he says.

Sure enough, the resident is shouting at the foreman of a construction site on Mission, insisting that the local merchants don't want protruding curbs at intersections.

Doing his best John Wayne imitation, Ciucci swaggers over, screws up his soft brown eyes into a mean stare and fires a few pithy words at the citizen. The foreman looks on with amusement.

Then Ciucci slings himself back into the truck with a smile hiding under his Pancho Villa moustache and confides, "This time, I was one step ahead of him. The merchants already okayed the plans."

He rides on past the neon lights, the new car lots and five-and-dime emporiums and rests his gaze on a building scarred with graffiti. "Jees, that guy just had his place repainted."

Further on down Mission Street he points with pride at a spiffy-looking haircutting shop. "That used to be a beer parlor," he chuckles.

It's a trip down memory lane for the tall, slick-haired Ciucci, known as "Chooch" to his friends. January 31 will be his last day as redevelopment staff planner for Daly City.

Ciucci fretted about handing in his resignation, fearful that people would criticize him for abandoning the rebirth of Daly City's oldest section after sinking 6-1/2 of his 31 years into it.

He was surprised when their reaction was, instead, "We're sorry to see you go, but if that's what you want to do, more power to you."

What Ciucci wants to do — and will do beginning Feb. 1 — is be a fireman. The idea had been in the back of his mind since he was in high school.

Ciucci wasn't one of those kids who wore a red plastic fireman's hat. "All I wanted to do as a little boy was not go to accordian lessons. Every Italian kid had to take accordian," he recalls.

Today he sometimes puts that hidden talent to use at Italian weddings when he taps on the accordian player's shoulder and asks if he can

Finance Director Returns

A familiar face will be back in Daly City this month.

For an unexplained reason, C. Robert Green has agreed to return to his former position as director of finance for the city Jan. 29 — 5-1/2 months after he resigned to take a new job.

Green, who previously worked for Daly City for 2-1/2 years, departed last August to become director of financial administration and control for Clackamas County, Ore.

Under a post-Proposition 13 policy, the City Council must approve Green's re-hiring.

Ronald Mitchell, who was finance director for the city in the interim, will assume his former title of assistant to the city manager but will handle additional responsibilities, according to City Manager David Rowe.

Another member of Rowe's staff, Lorraine D'Elia, surprised city

sit in. His three-song repertoire includes "The Beer Barrel Polka."

A teacher's praise of his skill at mechanical drawing and his parents' proud smiles when he won first prize in a high school industrial arts contest convinced the young Ciucci he was destined to become the next Frank Lloyd Wright.

During his senior year at California State Polytechnic University in San Luis Obispo, Ciucci had an architecture professor who sparked his interest in urban design.

Ciucci learned a lesson he has put to practice on Mission Street; that architects must adapt their designs to the buildings around them.

"You can't constantly build a monument to your own talent. You have to look at what will fit in," he says.

He had job offers from the cities of Palm Springs and Tracy before he heard of an opening in the Daly City Planning Department.

Although the Daly City job paid less than the others, it appealed to Ciucci because it meant he and his wife Debby could remain close to their families and friends in the Excelsior district of San Francisco.

Roots are important to Ciucci. After the awkward years of growing up, he now enjoys his parents' company for the first time. His family and Debby's share many dinners together.

Ciucci grew up just one block away from his wife, but he didn't meet her until he was 18. "She was worth waiting for," he says with a smile.

Before he met Debby, Ciucci was busy hanging out with "the guys" in his neighborhood. "It was great. In my territory were 18 to 20 guys my age. To this day, some of them remain true friends. If I need help, I know I can count on them and they know it works both ways."

Ciucci was the only one who finished college. But college did not prepare him for the animosity he encountered when he began working for Daly City in 1972 as a planning assistant.

Residents were convinced that the city was using redevelopment as an excuse to demolish their homes and make way for a shopping center.

Installing a rumor phone did not quell the stories that circulated on the street. "It was vicious," Ciucci recalls. His baby blue staff car bore dents from rocks hurled at it by angry citizens. Ciucci pasted the word "ouch" over one dent.

He remembers how nervous he was at his first redevelopment meeting. Although he knew perfectly well when the next meeting was scheduled, he asked City Manager David Rowe to confirm the date for the public.

Rowe told him after the meeting that this subtle show of respect hadn't been necessary. From then on, Ciucci was on his own.

He marvels at the free reign Rowe and his immediate boss, Don Fleming, gave him. "We couldn't have done half the things we did if I hadn't had that responsiveness."

Ciucci soon sensed that the major stumbling block in redevelopment was the inclusion of homes in the project area.

Once the area was re-defined to a territory encompassing only the commercial zones along Mission Street and Junipero Serra Boulevard, residents grew less suspicious of the city's motives.

Frank Spadarella was one of the original members on the Project Area Committee, the guiding force behind the plans to rejuvenate Mission Street's crumbling stores.

"I joined because I figured I'd have firsthand information about having to relocate my business (Toto's Restaurant) if it turned out I would have to relocate," Spadarella says.

It wasn't long before Spadarella and other committee members took a liking to Ciucci. "I've got a real warm feeling for Don. He's not the normal city worker type. He really feels for the community. He really reached out. We accepted him as one of our own," Spadarella says.

Ciucci worked side by side with members of the Project Area Committee, now 22 members strong, as they carved the final redevelopment plan.

"The committee was involved all the way down the line with the plan. They questioned everything. They made every decision. Nothing was done by staff alone," Ciucci explains.

He attributes the fresh paint, the cleaner sidewalks and crisp new signs along Mission Street to the committee's work. Committee members say it was mostly Ciucci's doing.

"He's a man on a crusade. He does all things possible to make redevelopment work," says Committeeman Chuck Turner. "Don worked with us on everything down to the finest gnat's eyebrow before he gave up."

Ciucci described his job as being a "conduit" between merchants and city officials. He scorned telephone calls in favor of getting a first-hand look at people's faces.

He made regular rounds. "I couldn't just sit there at City Hall. You have got to know what's going down on Mission Street and Junipero Serra," he said.

Sometimes he felt like Jekyll and Hyde, torn between the dictates of the city and the desires of the merchants.

The merchants learned that Ciucci would give the news to them straight. He was the friend they called to sound out an idea for remodeling their store, the guy they cornered at parties to tell about the stopped-up storm drain in their neighborhood.

They were familiar with the way his eyes rolled upward in disgust when he heard someone repeat a point for the third time. And they knew that the mere sight of a long-time redevelopment foe would cause him to quiver with rage.

"I have tried to be a poker face. It doesn't work," Ciucci admits.

His face has mirrored the joy and defeat he has felt while pushing and prodding the lumbering government machinery that stood in the way of his vision for Mission Street.

He was the genius who helped merchants design blueprints that appeased their neighbors and fell within their own budgets. One such project was Continental Auto's new building on what used to be a wind-whipped bed of weeds.

His most recent accomplishment is a mixed residential-commercial building planned for the corner of Mission Street and Eastlake Avenue. If approved by the City Council, it will introduce wood shingles, brick and airy balconies in an area that has seen much cold, grey concrete.

Today, by virtue of Ciucci's tenacity, Mission Street is beginning to blossom with new trees, sidewalks, brick crosswalks and cobblestone medians.

Encouraged by these signs of rebirth, merchants are sprucing up their businesses, sinking dollars into expansion and growing chummier with their neighbors.

Meetings of the Mission Merchants Association have the back-slapping mood of a small-town barbecue. Now politically united, the association has begun to make itself heard on local issues.

The re-birth of this once decaying part of Daly City did not occur overnight.

Ciucci has been hassled by well-meaning citizens and ornery bureaucrats, the Bay Area Rapid Transit District has threatened to cut through the project area using its power of eminent domain and Proposition 13 chopped his budget in half.

What seems to have bothered Ciucci most is the snail-like progress redevelopment has made, despite his best efforts. He admits that his job has taken him far afield of his youthful ambition to imitate Frank Lloyd Wright.

And so, with encouragement from his wife, Ciucci finally decided to act upon his desire to become a fireman.

Although he lives in Pacifica, he wouldn't consider applying for a job with any other fire department but Daly City's. "If I hadn't gotten the position here, it probably would have been one of those things that, when I reached age 50, I probably would have wondered about, then put out of my mind," he says.

He looks forward to spending the time he used to spend at meetings with his wife and friends. He insists that he won't lose touch with the pals he's made at work and through the Daly City Host Lions Club, Mission Merchants and Operation Santa Claus.

But, as the day of his leave-taking draws nearer, it gets harder. By his own admission, he's a sap who turns into a "dishrag" when he watches shows like "Little House on the Prairie."

Ciucci nearly cried when Spadarella read a resolution commending him at the Project Area Committee's last meeting. The usually loquacious man was speechless.

He has asked the city not to hold a dinner for him. "I don't know if I could handle it. The more nice things people say, the harder it becomes to cut the umbilical cord."

Ciucci filled a wastebasket with wads of paper when he drafted his resignation because he intends it to be his farewell message to Daly City.

In that letter, he writes, "If anything can be said regarding Daly City's redevelopment effort, it is that no one individual can be the personification of the agency's program. Redevelopment is a state of mind. Personal involvement and commitment by all parties will be the ultimate rule against which redevelopment's success must be measured."

Ciucci explains, "If there's one thing I want to give to the Project Area Committee, it's confidence in its own ability."

Habits, however, aren't broken easily. It's a safe bet that his friends still will, from time to time, catch a glimpse of Ciucci's big, black truck cruising down Mission Street.

dents to have their individual ballots witnessed by a notary public.

An attorney working with the committee, John Weir, is collecting the ballots as evidence that homeowners want to drop out of the association.

Committee members insist that WSIA's election is not the only way to prove that a majority favor eliminating the covenants.

But they will be watching with interest to see whether the residents of 6A vote to drop out later this month.

WSIA will have the election at its offices at 149 Lake Merced Blvd. in Daly City from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Jan. 27.

Residents who can't vote that day may cast their ballots between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Jan. 25 or 26.

The committee has scheduled a debate on the issues for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the association's offices. William Wade of WSIA will be present.

Sewer Refund Called a 'Political' Ploy

In what some observers called a political move, directors of the North San Mateo County Sanitation District voted unanimously Monday afternoon to refund $400,000 that the district overcharged its 22,000 customers in Daly City, Colma and unincorporated Colma last fall.

The directors did not mention during their two-hour meeting that the estimated cost of recalculating all of the sewer bills individually is $100,000.

When an auditor from the Environmental Protection Agency, Paul Jalbert, asked the directors why they didn't credit customers' future bills instead of issuing refund checks, Board Chairman William Schumacher replied that the integrity of the district is at stake and that the community's high turnover rate makes it desirable to adjust the bills as soon as possible.

Director Albert Teglia admitted that he had agonized over the decision and finally concluded, "This is the only fair way I know of."

Director John Ward, who last week replaced James Fitzgerald as the county Board of Supervisors' representative on the board, said, "If it were limited to this one issue, the board's options might be different."

Ward added that the cost to the district might be greater in the long run if the board didn't refund the money now.

Jalbert and others who attended the meeting said they thought the directors chose to refund the money for political reasons.

In one observer's words, it would have been "political suicide" to delay returning the money to the public — even if it meant saving $100,000.

By deciding to issue immediate refunds, the directors ignored the advice of their outside engineer, Robert Bernicchi of Resources, Engineering and Management (REM) in South San Francisco; their outside accountant, Richard Dwyer; and their former manager, David Gehre.

Bernicchi, Dwyer and Gehre had recommended keeping the $400,000 in a trust fund and making adjustments on next year's bills.

The overcharging issue is one of several problems confronting directors. They also have been criticized in recent months for noise and odor problems with the secondary treatment plant, a $9 million cost overrun on that plant and for allegedly trading business favors with past and present employees of the district.

(Jalbert has been busy since November auditing REM's books in the aftermath of charges that REM profited from engineering contracts on which the board did not seek competitive bids. Bernicchi maintains that competitive bidding was not required at the time his company landed the contracts.)

Ward pressed for a speedy solution to the erroneous bills and a simpler method of figuring sewer charges in the future. He predicted that the expense of recalculating the bills this year will be offset by streamlined billing procedures in the future.

At his urging, the board voted to adjust all the sewer bills on a parcel-by-parcel basis, using calculations based on two water meter readings made between Nov. 1, 1977 and Feb. 28, 1978.

The county is too busy to issue refund checks for the district, so the board authorized its staff to find a bank to pay out the refunds.

In the past, directors have hired REM and Richard Dwyer's accounting firm to handle financial tasks but Ward said firmly, "I'm frankly more comfortable having the whole thing handled by a bank."

When the other directors meandered from the topic at hand, Ward emphasized his desire to settle the overcharging problem that day.

A previous sampling of the bills showed that users were charged, on the average, 28 percent too much.

Midway through the calculations last summer, REM padded the charges, to generate the $1.5 million it figured the district would need to operate this year.

The result was that users were billed last fall an average of 88 cents per 100 cubic feet of water, rather than the 59-cent rate the board had authorized.

REM insists that directors were aware of the change. The directors say they weren't.

Dwyer estimated that 90 percent of the sewer users will receive refunds ranging from $1 to $40 and a handful will be paid amounts in excess of $100 because they were the victims of bad clerical errors.

He said he doubted the refunds could be processed before June.

workers by resigning after seven years in the city manager's office to accept a position in State Senator John Foran's district office in Westlake.

Landowners Seek Colma Annexation

Twenty-three landowners whose property lies in the shadow of Daly City took a step Monday in the direction of Colma.

Fearful that Daly City may snap up the 80 acres of land they own in unincorporated Colma, the property owners asked the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) to approve annexation of the area by the Town of Colma.

Their land comprises about half of all of unincorporated Colma. The area in question lies between San Pedro Road and the Colma city line and between El Camino Real and Junipero Serra Boulevard.

LAFCO's first meeting on the proposal Monday dealt strictly with environmental matters. A public hearing will be held after the commission's staff determines how extensive an environmental report must be made.

"We have been called Colma for many years. Some of us have owned property there for over 100 years. We would not like, after all these years, to be called Daly City," explained James Millett, whose father, Joseph Millett, spearheaded the Colma annexation campaign.

Some of the landowners stated that Colma could provide them with better city services than Daly City.

Daly City officials are expected to argue that the unincorporated area is rightfully theirs, since LAFCO recently determined that the section falls within Daly City's "sphere of influence."

Colma representatives are reportedly delighted by the increased revenues that Millett's motel and other businesses in the area would generate.

Jefferson Raises

A trial to decide if teachers in the Jefferson Union High School District should be paid raises without affecting district claims to state treasury surplusfunds was stayed Monday pending a Supreme Court decision on similar cases.

San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Thomas Jenkins however, ruled that if the state's highest court can't reach a decision in 90 days that the local trial should begin.

Teachers and officials of the high school district have filed suit against the state claiming a 7½ percent salary hike granted the teachers after a bitter 15-day strike should not affect the appropriation of some $7 million in Proposition 13 bail out aid to the district.

The negotiated salary raise was made retroactive to Feb. 1 1978.

The state, represented by the Attorney General's office, has argued that legislation implementing the Jarvis-Gann initiative provides that no surplus funds will be given to any government body that grants salary increases to public employees.

There are times you need a lawyer, and times you don't.

Yanello & Flippen helps you decide.

It's part of our responsibility.

For an initial consultation fee of $20, we'll discuss and analyze your problem, advise you on the law and make a recommendation as to whether or not you even need additional legal services.

If not, you pay no more. If so, you will pay 20-30% less than most other Bay Area attorneys charge for the same services. And you still receive the professional quality you expect.

Our services cover such legal needs as wills, personal injury, incorporation, contracts, and all aspects of domestic relations, including divorce and modification or enforcement of court orders.

There are Y&F offices throughout the Bay Area — in Oakland, San Francisco, Walnut Creek, Fremont, San Jose and San Mateo. For an appointment or brochure, call (415) 836-5300, or in the San Jose area, (408) 249-9340.

Popular Richard Back on Dining Scene

Countless diners will be delighted to hear that JIM SNIADECKI has appointed RICHARD TRAINOR as maitre d' of his SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S restaurant in Redwood City. Popular Richard, who is back from a seven months visit in Wisconsin, was previously on the dining scene here for four years ... Lunch south-of-the-border style at LA PINATA Mexican restaurant in Burlingame. Specials such as Chorizo Con Huevos (three scrambled eggs with Mexican sausage) and Huevos Rancheros (three eggs on a tortilla, topped with a sauce of green chiles, tomatoes, onions and melted cheese) are served with refried beans or Mexican rice, salad and corn tortillas ... PHIL LEHR'S STEAKERY on the lower level of the San Francisco Hilton Tower is famed for its superb Pay-By-Ounce steaks. But seafood lovers are discovering that it's also the home of fine seafood specialties. A top-seller is Phil's Salmon en Croute (fresh salmon topped with a pear marinated in Amaretto liqueur, then wrapped in a puff pastry shell and baked) ... ROSEBUD'S ENGLISH PUB, the elegant, $1 million dining palace on San Francisco's Geary Street "Theater Row," has continuous food service daily from 11 a.m. to 12:30 at night (Sundays 3 p.m. to midnight). So you can stop by anytime you're in the mood for fine dining at modest cost.

GOLDEN CHANGE

K.C. Lo, called "Lo" by his many friends, has changed the name of his Golden Door Chinese restaurant in downtown San Mateo to Kum Lo. "Kum" means "golden" in Chinese.

Baby Lobster Tail Gourmet Exclusive

MURRAY LEHR has another gourmet exclusive this week at LEHR'S GREENHOUSE garden restaurant in San Francisco. He cornered the market on Maine baby lobster tails and is serving them for $12.95 on the dinner. That's three lobster tails, plus Lehr's famous gourmet salad bar, all for $12.95 ... REX BARNETT, the young country and pop music star at the KING'S TABLE, is being hailed as a "young Will Rogers." He also spices his shows with some rib-cracking humor ... Good news for seafood gourmets who like to dine oceanside in intimate, nautical surroundings: CAPTAIN CHARLES, one of three outstanding Rockaway Beach restaurants in a complex which includes NICK'S and THE MOONRAKER, is now open after a short vacation period. Seafood regulars are again finding their favorite selections at their favorite tables ... For haute cuisine, attentive service, elegance of decor and quality luncheon and dinner choices, L'AUBERGE French restaurant in Redwood City comes to mind when knowledgeable people decide where to dine ... Football fans, now hear this: MEL CICERO and HARRY CURUSIS will open their BAYHILL LOUNGE in the Bayhill Shopping Center, San Bruno, at 11 a.m. for the Super Bowl on Sunday, Jan. 21, with a special buffet, TV viewing, and all the fun and spirits that make for real football enjoyment at the biggest game of the season. Also, don't miss the new musical combo, INDEED, which is going over big on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

Enrico Anticipates Trip To Rome

Now that the calendar has turned into 1979 and is racing toward June, that faraway look in the eyes of ENRICO ROMANO, owner-host of ROMANO'S, the old-world style Italian ristorante at Rockaway Beach, might be caused by his anticipation of a trip to Rome, where Rotary International will hold convention. Enrico, as a high official of District 513 of Rotary, will be attending (and likely picking up some gastronomical tips) ... You can get a full selection of Chinese food at GONG'S Chinese restaurant, South San Francisco, just about any way that is most convenient for your needs. Have food delivered, pick up orders from their take-out service, or they will do catering for your family, parties or groups ... BEARDSLEY'S, a popular Burlingame restaurant-bar that has been a landmark at Broadway and El Camino for many years, now opens at 4 p.m. with dinners served from 5:30 p.m. seven nights a week, including Sundays. BOBBIE STAHL entertains at the piano bar from 9 p.m. Wednesdays through Sundays ... Ja, there's a real German restaurant in Moss Beach called TILLIE'S 'LIL' FRANKFURT, where owner TILLIE SCHOLTZ does all the cooking and serves generously all the favorite and savory German dishes. It's only a short and easy trek, via Highway 92 or 380, from anywhere on the Peninsula ... Even if you only went for the food bargains at BARNEY'S and nearby SOUTH TAHOE NUGGET at South Lake Tahoe, it would be worth the trip. Breakfast at 99 cents at both casinos, a chicken dinner for $1.99 at Barney's, lunch and dinner buffet ($3.95) at the South Tahoe Nugget, plus many other specials. And, of course, "Fun the Nevada Way." Be sure to pick up some Barney's free coupons at one of several places along the highway when heading for Stateline. You'll be getting an even better bargain ... DON RICKLES, the "king of insult," and singer BERT COVY will share the stage at HARRAH'S TAHOE Jan. 19-25 in the South Shore Room. Musical backing from the BRIAN FARNON ORCHESTRA. LORETTA LYNN and DICK SHAWN co-headline through Jan. 18.

Meeting at Hospital

Louanne Heath

Friday at noon, members of the Mary's Help Hospital Guild will gather for the first meeting of the new year.

Mrs. Virginia Hupf and her helpers will assemble in the hospital cafeteria at 10:30 a.m. to begin working on Washington's Birthday tray favors.

At the same hour, members of the executive board will meet in the hospital board room.

The general meeting, complete with luncheon, will begin at noon in the auditorium on the ground floor.

Donn L. Thomas, the director of facilities development, will be the guest speaker. Thomas will bring members up to date on the hospital's expansion program.

The luncheon will be served at 1:30 p.m. in the cafeteria area. Members and their guests are always welcome.

Mrs. Virginia Stanghellini, the tour chairman, will indicate whether or not any space remains available on the guild's Reno bound bus Feb. 1-2.

This is a fun junket, planned each winter to provide rest and relaxation for the members following the holiday activities. Price is $32 per person with several refunds to be distributed once the bus reaches the casinos.

For additional information contact Mrs. Stanghellini.

On a solemn note, guild members will attend a special memorial Mass for Cal Dunow Jan. 25 in the hospital Chapel at 4:10 p.m. Dunow, the husband of the guild's publicity chairwoman and a longtime active supporter of the guild, died two days before Christmas. The Dunows were in Fresno at the time and many localites have not received word of his death. Dunow was active in many local organizations.

While members of the Westlake Senior Citizens are meeting in an unaccustomed location, the Westlake Community Center, Mrs. Emily Pappas, the club's tour director, is telling them of the uncommon outings she has planned for the new year. Trips have been announced to Las Vegas, Palm Springs, Catalina Island, Hearst Castle and other sites.

Mrs. Ernestine Vetter, publicity chairwoman, urges all members to attend club meetings to get details on the tours.

Members of the Balboa Alumni Association who attend the annual Alumni vs. Varsity basketball game at City College Jan. 20, will be encouraged to celebrate the event by putting a deposit down on a fall cruise to Mexico.

Gloria and Gene Perret of Burlingame are in charge of the arrangements for the 10 day cruise to Puerto Vallarta, Mazatlan, Acapulco and Cabo San Lucas.

Persons placing a deposit down on trip reservations will be given a 10 percent early bird discount if they sign up prior to February 1.

Twenty chapters of the Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority will send representatives to the Bay-Peninsula regional council meeting and luncheon Jan. 28 at the Sheridan Hotel in Burlingame.

Mrs. Dorothy Vanek, the president of the local chapter, Beta Sigma Alpha, reports that the localites have been named the council hostesses. Members Kay Huckaby and her committee are already making table favors and decorations to highlight the theme, "Winter Wonderland."

The sorority's State Vice President, Mrs. Charline McCue, will be the conference's special guest.

Members of the Daly City Area Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons, AARP, will hear a physician from the San Mateo Clinic speak on medical care for the senior community.

'Friends' To Hear Singer

A glimpse into the life of an opera singer and an introduction to the opera will be provided through an "informance" by Gwendolyn Jones, affiliate artist of the San Francisco Opera, for The Friends of the Daly City Library and their guests, Jan. 24 at 7:30 p.m. in the community room of Serramonte Library.

The event, to which the public is welcome free of charge, has been arranged by Lois Manbert, chairman, through the auspices of The San Francisco Opera Guild, volunteer support organization of the San Francisco Opera. Sponsors are The Sears Roebuck Foundation and the National Endowment for The Arts. Ms. Jones will be accompanied by a pianist furnished by the Opera Guild.

Mezzo-soprano Jones has appeared for seven seasons with the San Francisco Opera, most recently in the 1978 season portraying two confidantes, Emilia in "Otello" and Clotilde in "Norma."

St. Martin's Elects New Officers

St. Martin's Episcopal Parish had its annual meeting recently. New church officers were elected, reports of parish organizations and committees were heard, and a budget for 1979 was adopted.

Elected to serve on the vestry were Chris Burgett, Mary Martin, Bill Seeley, John Armfield, John Watson, Elizabeth Reece and Elsa Carpenter. They will be joining other vestry members Pete Austin, Richard Dominguez, Kay Hoover, Ruth Hoppin, Art Forslund and Esther Schorr.

Three delegates to Diocesan Convention were elected: Art Forslund, Kay Hoover and Ruth Hoppin.

Yau Ends CG Boot Camp

Coast Guard Seaman Apprentice Frankie C. Yau, son of Lai P. and Sow K. Yau, 140 Wilshire Ave., Daly City, has completed recruit training at the Coast Guard Training Center, Alameda.

Ranking Congressman Views District Outlook

Politically, San Mateo County will take some time to recover the edge it lost in Washington with the death of Rep. Leo J. Ryan, a leading Democrat said Friday in Burlingame.

Rep. James Corman from Southern California was here to address the Western Region of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce meeting at the Hyatt House.

Corman then adjourned to the chamber's 500 Airport Blvd. offices for a press conference.

Chairman of the National Democratic Congressional Committee, Corman said that how quickly San Mateo County regains its level of representation in Congress depends on four things:

"The quality of the man you elect, the party he belongs to, how well he works with people, and seniority. The seniority system is still there."

Corman said he was speaking as a Democrat, of course, but that since his party makes up to two-thirds of the membership in Congress, his party gets the committee chairmanships.

"A Democrat is able to have more influence quicker," he said.

"It is a long, slow process for a Republican."

Not that there aren't exceptions, he said, but the Democratic Party's overwhelming influence makes it difficult for members of other parties to get important assignments.

Corman said the "quality of the man" is very important.

"If you elect another representative of the same quality as Mr. Ryan, it won't take long before he is effective. Leo was effective before the end of his first term."

Corman is a member of the House Ways and Means Committee and the Small Business Committee. He said he spoke to the chamber on subjects relating to finances.

"My guess is that there will be no important new tax bills coming out of Congress this year," he said, although "some basic matters must be addressed."

He said the problem of a federal debt ceiling "must be addressed soon," and the questions of whether employee fringe benefits should be taxed as income and whether some kinds of sales employees are truly employees or independent contractors.

Some areas of the capital gains tax must also be probed, he said, especially the impact of capital gains tax at the time of death.

Corman predicted the federal government will be interested in "real wage insurance," a form of protecting wages against inflation.

He said President Carter favors a program of tax benefits to employees whose wages increase no more than 7 percent during a year in which inflation is greater than 7 percent.

Corman said he believes it is "unfortunate" that Carter did not insist the Defense Department keep its budget increases within 7 percent for the coming year, while holding other departmental increases to the 7 percent goal.

However, he said, Congress will probably support Carter.

'Murder-for-Hire' Suspect Bound Over to Superior Court

A Pacifica woman who is accused of trying to hire someone to kill her husband will have to stand trial in Superior Court.

Municipal Court Judge Margaret Kemp ordered Friday that Jacqueline C. King, 29, be bound over to Superior Court on a charge of soliciting the commission of a crime.

She will be arraigned at 9 a.m. Jan. 26 before Judge Alan Bollhofer in Redwood City.

Mrs. King remains in custody. Her bail has been set at $30,000.

Pacifica police and San Mateo County sheriff's deputies arrested her Dec. 20 after she allegedly made a $5,000 down payment to undercover agents to have her husband killed.

She has pleaded not guilty to the charge.

At the preliminary hearing Friday a tape was played of the conversation Mrs. King had with the undercover agents just prior to her arrest at the Airport Hilton.

Sgt. Michael Dow of the special investigations unit of the San Mateo County Sheriff's Office was the only witness called to the stand.

Dow testified that when he and another undercover officer met Mrs. King to discuss the arrangements for having Jack King murdered, she did not appear nervous.

The 17-minute tape played for the court included:

When Mrs. King entered the motel room she looked it over thoroughly, explaining that, "I hate to be skeptical but I'm nervous."

When offered some champagne by one of the undercover officers, she declined.

The trio discussed her motive for wanting to have her husband killed. Mrs. King said the couple had been married for 11 years and were in the process of getting a divorce.

She wanted him killed, Mrs. King stated, because she did not want everything she had worked for to go to her husband's girlfriend.

A schedule of her husband's whereabouts for the next two days was given to the men and arrangements were made for him to be killed in an automobile accident that Friday night.

Mrs. King said she would be out of the state when the accident occurred and that a relative would have to identify the body.

Dow said that after the accident, he would place a ring on Jack King's left hand as an indication that he had completed the task successfully.

A down payment of $5,000 cash was given to the undercover agents, with the understanding that $15,000 more would be due 35 days after Jack King's death.

The rest of the money would be raised, she said, by cashing in two insurance policies.

The woman was given several opportunities to back out, but each time she declined.

At one point one of the men told her, "Once you walk out the door your husband's dead."

"I understand," she calmly replied.

Earlier in his testimony, in response to questions from Deputy District Attorney Kelly Ogle, Dow said the meeting with Mrs. King was arranged through the Pacifica Police Department.

Defense attorney Charles Dresow, Mrs. King's lawyer, tried during cross-examination to prove entrapment on the part of the law enforcement agencies involved.

He said part of the proof of this is that the meeting between the undercover officers and Mrs. King was arranged so quickly.

Dresow also pointed out that it was the police officers who pursued making the specific arrangements for the "accidental death," and not Mrs. King.

HEADS COMMISSION

Dan Casentini, San Bruno civic leader, has been elected chairman of the San Mateo County Civil Service Commission. Casentini recently completed arrangements to name San Mateo County and the province of Lucca, Tuscany, Italy, as "sister counties." Meta Berry of Millbrae was named commission vice chairman.

County May Appeal Ruling Upholding Anonymous Election Material Source

The San Mateo County District Attorney's Office is tentatively planning to appeal a judge's ruling that upheld a citizen's right to distribute anonymous election materials.

In that Jan. 4 ruling, San Mateo Municipal Court Judge James O. Miller found unconstitutional a section of the California Elections Code that makes it a misdemeanor for any person to print, reproduce or distribute any written material or poster "having reference to an election, to any candidate or any measure" without including the name and address of the "person responsible for it."

The case arose when a violation allegedly occurred in Brisbane during a City Council election last spring.

A leaflet circulated at that time by Luman Drake of Brisbane urged voters to keep Brisbane "a safe little village." It was signed by "Citizens for a Better Brisbane."

Drake was represented by the American Civil Liberties Union, which argued that the Elections Code section forbidding anonymous election materials was too broad and interfered with the individual's right to free speech.

Deputy District Attorney Martin Murray contended that there is a provision in the law to allow the anonymous circulation of election materials through a committee so that an individual can shield himself.

Drake said he was relieved by the judge's decision. He said the practice of circulating anonymous election materials is common in Brisbane.

"When you live in a small town, you feel you have to do that just so you can keep things cool after the election."

Drake claims he lost his bookkeeping job as a result of the incident.

But unless his deputy finds some last-minute reasons for not doing so, San Mateo County Assistant District Attorney William Larsen said Friday that he intends to appeal Miller's decision.

The district attorney's office has until Feb. 5 to file an appeal.

New Sanitation Chief's Woes

BY TERRY DAVENPORT

Like a cat pretending to nap, Peter Archuleta leans back in his chair and gazes at his visitors through half-closed eyes.

An unsuspecting person might be lulled into thinking that the bearded gentleman is daydreaming.

Actually, he is carefully cataloguing details of the visitor's appearance, mannerisms and speech.

Listening carefully, then taking action, has been his approach in the past, explained the new manager of the North San Mateo County Sanitation District.

At the age of 36, he admits wearily that he's been in management jobs 14 years and attained his lifelong goal of becoming a city manager 20 months ago.

If you had told Archuleta in college that he would one day be in charge of a giant sludge operation, he wouldn't have believed you.

He took the job, he said, because it is a challenge and will require new techniques of management.

"I'm really excited about it," Archuleta said in an expressionless voice.

As head of a sanitation district serving 22,000 customers in Daly City, Colma and unincorporated Colma, Archuleta will have to contend with a $400,000 overbilling problem, allegations that district employees and board members traded business favors, and noise and odor problems with the secondary treatment plant, which cost $9 million more than originally planned.

Archuleta wasn't impressed with a recent half-hour television documentary and newspaper articles detailing the district's troubles.

"Frankly, I listen half-heartedly to news reports," he said with a laugh.

But his inner alarm went off when he watched the district's board members perspire at a recent meeting, while trying to answer questions raised by a roomful of angry citizens.

Although Chairman William Schumacher had announced the board's plans to appoint a new manager following a brief executive session that day, the board emerged after an hour of closed debate without an appointee.

Archuleta confessed, "I told them I wanted more time to think about it."

In the end, the challenge of the job, or perhaps the $33,900 salary, won him over.

"I don't think I should be worried, because I'm coming in here with my hands clean," he said, spreading out his fingers with well manicured nails, as if to prove the point.

Archuleta was sitting in the same chair as his predecessor, David Gehre, who two weeks ago accused the directors of making him the scapegoat for their woes. The room was filled with the faint sour odor of sludge churning in the nearby plant.

The details of the district's problems don't concern him. Archuleta's goal is to manage what others have found unmanageable.

Nor is he bothered by his lack of experience in the field of wastewater management.

"As far as I'm concerned, the directors are paying me to manage the district," he said.

"You pick up techniques of management. My philosophy as city manager was I pretty much went out and recruited what I thought were top-notch individuals, then I placed all the responsibility on them. I don't like to meddle in department head areas. If they have any problems, we talk about them. I expect them to resolve the issues."

Headrolling is not part of his immediate plans for the district, however.

PETER ARCHULETA

Starts today

Archuleta said, "From what I've seen, they have some very capable individuals working here."

Should he change his mind, there's no doubt the ax will fall, just as he applied it to his own $28,900 job as city administrator of the City of Clayton.

Archuleta decided after 20 months on the job that what the East Bay city really needed was an administrator with a strong finance background, instead of his forte, which is city planning.

An undergraduate at Los Angeles State (now California State University at Los Angeles), Archuleta did graduate study in public administration and law at JFK University in Orinda.

Before becoming Clayton's city administrator, he was planning director for Antioch for nine years and held planning jobs with the City of El Monte.

By coincidence, stories about how Archuleta eliminated his own job hit newspapers at the same time as articles concerning the sanitation district's problems. Archuleta heard through the city manager grapevine that the district was looking for a new chief.

Eager to assume his new post, Archuleta has been talking with sanitation district directors and employees for the past two weeks while living off the vacation pay he earned while working for Clayton.

It's a 50-minute commute to Daly City from his home in Antioch, where he lives with his wife Peggy and their daughter Markia, whom Archuleta described as "14 going on 21."

3 County Cities Dissent In Air Quality Plan

Only three cities — all of them in San Mateo County — cast dissenting votes Saturday in Vallejo when the 94-member Association of Bay Area Governments approved a 444-page scheme to clean up air quality.

The overwhelming majority of the regional body easily accepted the air quality plan despite an ABAG staff member's note that it's the most stringent plan yet prepared in the country.

Representatives from Pacifica, Burlingame and Half Moon Bay voted against adoption of the plan, which is required by federal law for implementation in 1982.

The plan will now be forwarded to state and federal agencies for approval. ABAG is asking for a five-year extension of the implementation deadline, however.

Each of the San Mateo County cities had its own reason for voting against the air quality plan which will be included in the massive $4.3 million Environmental Management Plan adopted by ABAG, under the gun of federal mandate, in June.

Burlingame Councilman Dave Martin, representing his city at the ABAG General Assembly, said he voted "no" because he doesn't believe ABAG has total control over the contents of the document.

He particularly expressed alarm when some ABAG members tried to change certain transportation controls proposed in the plan and were told by ABAG staff that the Metropolitan Transportation Commission would have the ultimate say over those controls.

"I'm tired of hearing this is an ABAG plan when we have no control over certain matters," Martin related.

He said that "politically and morally," he can't cast a vote for an ABAG plan that's partially controlled by a "faceless agency not represented by the people."

A vote for the plan, he said, concedes that MTC has the right to change the plan without ABAG's approval.

Pacifica Councilman Stan Farber said he couldn't vote for the air plan because he doesn't believe the cities can afford it. While the water quality segment of the EMP carried a hefty pricetag, ABAG staff members said the air plan won't cost local government anything unless it has a transit system, which San Mateo County does.

Farber, in representing his city, also voted against the total EMP package in June.

"We can't afford it," Farber said Saturday. If the federal government wants such a plan, it should put up the money for its implementation, he said.

"It comes to a point you have to say, 'To hell with it,'" he contended. When it comes to a choice between funding air quality improvement measures or police and fire protection, it's obvious what the local citizens are more interested in, he added.

Half Moon Bay Councilman Albert Adreveno said his council unanimously agreed to vote against the plan in protest of an ever increasing barrage of federal and state government mandates over cities and counties.

"This just adds to the problem," Adreveno said.

The adopted plan includes the following provisions for reducing Bay Area carbon monoxide emissions:

Mandatory annual vehicle inspection and maintenance, exhaust catalyst installation on heavy duty gasoline trucks, preferential parking for carpools, transit service improvements, ramp metering and high occupancy vehicle lanes on selected freeway segments, a comprehensive implementation of an expanded regional carpool program and system of bicycle paths and storage facilities.

However, state legislation will be required before the vehicle inspection program could be implemented.

"It is among the most cost effective methods and it gives us the best reductions," Leong said.

Daly City Chamber of Commerce Reconsiders — To Take City Money

Pennies from heaven shouldn't be ignored, the Greater Daly City Chamber of Commerce has decided.

The organization's board of directors reconsidered a previous stand not to accept any money from the City of Daly City and voted last week to accept $3,600 offered by the City Council.

The board decided to spend the money on promotions designed to entice more businesses to Daly City.

It appointed a five-member committee to work with the city staff to determine what existing land is available for new buildings in Daly City and to catalog the city's selling points for free enterprise.

When the chamber's directors voted last year not to accept any contributions from the city, they were miffed because the council had not given them any money for the current year. During the previous year, the council had awarded the chamber $20,000.

Chamber Manager Peter Markovich explained that the directors liked being financially independent of the city, so that the chamber could take tough stands on city problems.

Messages concerning distribution or delivery of the North County Post should be telephoned between 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. (952-1295) or sent in writing to the North County Post, P.O. Box 248, San Bruno, CA. 94066.

Minority Unit Formed

Hispanic-American Democrats in San Mateo County are banding together to address issues of concern to minority persons.

Roger Romero, a Daly City resident who is temporary chairman of the new group, said its purpose is to increase the dignity of Hispanic-Americans, to work for equality and to solve problems through unity.

Called Hispanic-American Democrats of San Mateo County, the group has appointed a planning committee to draw up its by-laws.

Similar organizations are being formed in other parts of California, Arizona, New Mexico, Florida and New York.

The local organization's next meeting will be Feb. 8 at 7 p.m. at 800 El Camino Real in Millbrae.

Further information about the group is available from Romero at 208 Belmar Ave., Daly City 94015; telephone: 756-3088.

Food Buying Cooperative

A food-buying cooperative has been formed for North County residents in Daly City.

New members are being accepted into the Family Buying Club, which will meet Wednesday at 7 p.m. at the Daly City Chamber of Commerce, 312 90th St.

The club has been formed under the direction of the San Mateo County Economic Opportunity Commission to help members buy food in quantity at wholesale prices.

'Punch Line' Is Different

By RICHARD C. MOON

Nearly everyone enjoys the mental gymnastics involved in word games such as "Scrabble," "Probe," "Boogle," and "Spill and Spell."

Now, there's a new word game that is really different. It's called "Punch Line."

Parker Brothers, which is publishing the game, advertises it as "the word game that makes you laugh!" It's designed to encourage the use of wit and humor. The object is to make a word of the highest possible point value which will complete a given sentence.

To begin the game each player takes a slide holder and 10 strips of letters. Each strip contains 12 letters. These are placed in the slide holder, one beneath the other, so they all are visible. The slide holder has 10 slots with windows that form a center column.

The game also contains a deck of 28 activity cards. Each card is printed with incomplete sentences on both sides. These cards are shuffled and a selected player reads a sentence on the card. Then each contestant tries to create a word that will complete the sentence. The letters of the created word must run from top to bottom in the center column. It can contain as many as 10 letters, depending on the number of blank spaces left.

Each incomplete sentence given lends itself to a wide variety of responses. For example, one of the activity card's sentences reads "The early bird catches the ." The usual response is "worm" but "train," "measles," "cat" or "thief" would be just as acceptable and might earn a higher score.

When a player thinks he has created a word that will give him the most points he may start the timer, which is a 30-second glass filled with sand. When it is started the contestant's opponents immediately are put under pressure because they now must complete their own words before the sand runs through the glass.

Different letters have different values. More commonly used letters such as "a" and "e" are worth a single point, but the seldom used "z" is worth 10 points.

A Punch Line game consists of several rounds. The first player to reach 250 points is the winner. This is a fast-moving, exciting game of laughter and amusement for two to four players ages 10 to adult, and a really terrific icebreaker to get that party off to a hilarious start.

Kiwanis To Honor Police

Police of three Daly City-Colma departments will receive awards at a dinner hosted by the Exchange Club of Daly City/Colma on Feb. 11 at the House of Parties, Daly City, starting at 5 p.m.

The dinner, which will climax the Exchange Club's Anti-Crime Week — Feb. 5-11, will feature award presentations recommended by the police departments of Daly City, Broadmoor and Colma.

Their chiefs, David A. Hansen, William Noonan, and Jim Dorris, respectively, are expected to attend.

The charcoal broiled steak dinner will be followed by a half-hour of entertainment by the popular Kelelani Polynesian Dancers.

The previous Friday and Saturday there will be displays of anti-crime material in the mall of the Serramonte Shopping Center, provided not only by the Exchange Club, but also by the Anti-Crime League of Daly City and CAPTURE.

The various homeowner associations that belong to the league will bring more ideas on crime prevention.

Co-chairmen of the event for the Exchange Club are Conrad Pavellas and Frank Beller.

Pavellas reports that he will ask Mayor William Schumacher of Daly City to proclaim Feb. 5-11 as Anti-Crime Week, and Foster & Kleiser has donated a billboard on Mission Street to publicize this civic effort.

Exercise in Philippines

Sgt. Silvano B. Bactor Jr., nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Gervacio B. Miguel, 869 Gellert Blvd., Daly City, recently participated in "Cope Thunder," a mock training exercise in the Philippines.

Bactor is an aircraft electrical systems specialist at Kunsan AB, South Korea, with the 8th Tactical Fighter Wing. The exercise provided realistic training of tactical, strategic and joint service employment of air power in realistic combat scenarios.

Barrum Wins Promotion

Marine Pfc. Bernard M. Barrun, son of Logerio D. and Maximina M. Barrun, 325 Alta Loma Ave., Daly City, has been promoted meritoriously to his present rank upon graduation from recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego.

He received the early-promotion for his superior performance during all phases of the nine-week training cycle, which emphasized physical conditioning, self-discipline and teamwork. He joined the Marine Corps in August.

Logia Ends Code Course

An official at Kessler AFB, Miss., has announced the graduation of Airman Esther F. Logia from the U. S. Air Force's morse systems operator course conducted by the Air Training Command.

Logia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cris N. Logia, 40 Peoria St., Daly City, now is skilled in the operation of electronic equipment used to monitor Air Force communications systems, and will serve at Misawa AB, Japan. The airman is a 1977 graduate of Serramonte High School.

INFLATION FIGHTING ideas

2. "No Frills – Lower Bills."

This is the title of one article in an official leaflet published recently by the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs. The article points out that shoppers can often save by buying lesser grade foods that are still perfectly safe and nutritionally equivalent to national brands or "private labels."

Safeway's own new economy brand is SCOTCH BUY in the bright plaid label. It's a real inflation fighter! Each Scotch Buy product carries Safeway's SEAL OF GOOD QUALITY and is unconditionally guaranteed to please in every way or your money back. When an item's appearance is less important, choosing from Safeway's lower cost Good Quality category makes a lot of sense. Some of our Scotch Buy products are manufactured or processed by Safeway; others are made to our good quality specifications by approved manufacturers and processors.

Get to know Safeway's thrifty new Scotch Buy brand . . . in everything from mayonnaise to paper products, canned goods to cleaning items. "Scotch Buy ain't fancy but it sure is good!"

Jeff Survives 'Jinx' in NPL

The Regent jinx — a rather new development plaguing North Peninsula League basketball squads — has been laid to rest.

Jefferson High performed the honors Friday with a 79-60 victory over visiting Terra Nova High.

"I was worried. Gees, each team which has beaten Serramonte this season has lost its next game," Jeff Coach Bud Bresnahan noted, after the Indians had notched their fifth consecutive NPL win in as many games.

And it appeared as if the jinx might strike again as Terra Nova, utilizing an effective zone defense to contain Indian standout Darryl Jackson, trailed by only five at halftime.

But the Indians, led by the all-around play of Jackson and the outside shooting of forward Bob Oller, took control of the game in the third quarter, outscoring TN 20-10, to put the game, for all intents and purposes, out of reach.

"They were slow getting back on defense so we were able to beat them on the transition for the same fast breaks," Oller said.

Oller noted that one reason Jeff has been successful this season is balance. "We have a really good team. A team cannot key on one of us like DJ or the other guys will hurt them. We don't have much height but we do have a lot of speed."

Speed will be a crucial factor when Jeff visits Westmoor in an important NPL clash today at 3:15 p.m.

El Camino Upsets South City

The fighting was fierce at El Camino High Friday night, but when the dust finally cleared, the Colts had posted their first North Peninsula League basketball victory, 55-53, over South San Francisco in an overtime upset.

The lead changed hands throughout the first half until, with 4:05 left in the second quarter, seniors Brian George and Jeff Pettigrew led a run of 12 straight Colt points enroute to a 27-18 Colt halftime lead.

South City played catch-up quickly in the third period and trailed only up to three points when Warrior Aldo DeTomasi went to work, leading SSF to a 49-47 advantage with just 0:22, left but DeTomasi's foul sent Colt Derek Hughes to shoot a one-and-one. Hughes canned both tying the score 49-49 at the end of regulation.

Six-foot-five junior Mike Bigham led the Colt attack in overtime before fouling out, while John Solaita kept the Warriors in the contest. His free-throw tied the score at 55-53 with just 0:31 to go.

The teams matched timeouts, with El Camino setting up its one-shot play.

It worked the ball around until sub Alan Hoffer, standing at his own free-throw line, found Hughes wide open underneath for a game-winning two-footer with 0:02 left.

El Camino Coach Rich Arias was estatic: "I feel our team played well,even though South City is playing hurt (guard Billy Vaden was out). I was pleased with the way they fought back after the HMB loss (43-42 Wednesday). The past few games," he continued, "We have hit the peak, but we have not gotten over the hump."

Rams Outgun Sharks 81-77

Westmoor High won "a real shoot out," according to Coach Tony Giamonna, over North Peninsula League rival Oceana High in a basketball game Friday night, 81-77.

Both teams were finding the basket an easy target, as a total of nine players from both sides reached double figures.

Tiger Women 'Steamrollers'?

The North Peninsula League favorite, Terra Nova, looked like it belongs in a league for steamrollers.

TN dumped Jefferson 70-38 to highlight girls' basketball action Friday.

In the NPL, Jefferson moved to within nine points of Terra Nova in the third quarter behind 14 points by Missy Firpo.

But Becky Myers went on a late-game tear, ending up with 32 points to put the game away for the Tigers. TN forward Marianne Juergens paced the rebounders with 14 boards while ball-handlers Myers, Lori Diaz and Renee Sandell combined for 18 steals and 16 assists.

Although playing their fourth game this week due to a scheduling quirk, South San Francisco looked all but sluggish in defeating traditional rival El Camino 45-33 to remain unbeaten in the NPL.

Serramonte notched its first league win by blitzing Half Moon Bay 46-28. Regent guard Yolanda Newton scored 16 points for one of her best games of the season to counter 12 tallies by HMB's Anne Galle. The Westmoor-Oceana game was postponed until January 22.

Big Week Looms For Trojan Five

This is the week Skyline College's basketball team has been waiting 11 months for and preparing for all season. Saturday night's 77-57 romp at Ohlone was the final tune-up.

The Trojans return to Cabrillo College, site of their last Coast Conference loss, on Wednesday evening, then play their first home game in a month Saturday night, against arch-rival Menlo.

A near capacity crowd is expected for Saturday's inter-County dual between the two schools which have kept the Coast title in San Mateo County for the last seven years.

If both locals win on the road Wednesday night, they'll pit 3-0 records Saturday at 7:30 p.m. for the undisputed Coast leadership. Menlo leads in the series 9-7, but Skyline has won four of the last five meetings.

However Skyline can ill afford to look past Cabrillo (2-1), which shocked the Trojans, 50-49, in a make-up game at the end of last season, giving Menlo the outright league crown. Earlier Menlo and Skyline had taken home-court victories against each other. A missing referee caused postponement of the Cabrillo contest.

At Fremont Saturday, Skyline extended its win streak to seven and Coast record to 2-0, paced by a 30-point outburst by soph center Brad Levesque. The 6-6 St. Ignatius grad was 13 for 19 from the field, and pulled in 15 rebounds. He got a lot of help from 6-5 soph forward Reggie Love, who had 11 assists, 10 of them passes to Levesque, plus 11 rebounds.

An important factor in Skyline's surge from a 4-4 record to 12-5 over the past month has been the emergence of 6-6 soph forward James Reed. The Jefferson grad has been averaging 10 rebounds and nine points a game since becoming a starter in mid-December. Saturday he contributed 12 rebounds and six points.

Skyline led Ohlone, 35-19, at the half and had as much as a 26-point margin in the second half. The host Renegades sank to 0-3 in league and 5-11 overall.

High School Mile

Scot Runner Top Qualifier

Sports
And Recreation

By FRED BAER

Carlmont High's Kevin O'Connor tops the high school two-milers, while Skyline College and the Millbrae Lions have several top entries for the San Francisco Indoor Games at the Cow Palace, Jan. 26.

In qualifying Saturday at the University of California in Berkeley, O'Connor raced to a 9:24.0 triumph over Mike Williams (9:24.5) of Arcata and Jay Marden (9:24.6) of Mission San Jose.

Their rematch indoors next week promises to be just as close — with some added competition from Marcus Clarke of Australia, son of all-time track and field great Ron Clarke.

San Mateo County dominates the pole vault field with Mike Kenison of Mills and Robert Crumpler of Menlo-Atherton qualifying at 12-6 and Greg Ellis of Menlo-Atherton clearing 12-6 in a jump-off for a remaining berth.

Skyline produced the County's only community college qualifiers, making it in both the sprint medley and mile relays. The Trojans lead the sprint medley entries, as Jeff Maxwell ran a well-paced 1:55.4 anchor 880 to make up 15 yards on San Jose and Santa Rosa on the last lap for a 3:31.6 victory.

Tom Bobertz led off that quartet with a 49.9 quarter and later anchored the Skyline mile relay team (which also included Maxwell) to a Cow Palace spot with a 49.4 split for a 3:23.4 team time. San Jose won its section by more than ten seconds, however, in 3:14.5.

College of San Mateo's Mike Smith was second in an exhibition shot put at 51-4, but there'll be no JC competition in that event indoors. CSM was fourth in its sprint medley section (3:44.8).

The Millbrae Lions produced qualifiers in the 50 meters in Marian Franklin (second in her section in 6.6), in the 60-yard hurdles in Gigi Hurley (third in her section in 8.8), in the 1600 meter relay (third in 3:56.8), and with a winning girls age group relay. Herbert Hoover Boys Club of East Palo Alto qualified in both the boys and girls age group relays.

CSM Grapplers Hurt; Skyline's AhSue Wins

CUPERTINO — For College of San Mateo's wrestling team, injury was the order of the day in Saturday's DeAnza College Classic Tournament.

Of the three Bulldog grapplers who registered victories in the tournament, two suffered sprained necks and were unable to continue.

Gary Bocci had won two of his first three 126-pound matches, but got hurt during his fourth match and had to lose by default. Ken Chainey, after winning his first bout, was injured while losing a second match, and it was decided he shouldn't compete in a third match.

CSM's third winner was John Jacques, who prevailed in his initial 177-pound match before losing a pair of bouts.

Skyline also competed in the tournament, and the Trojans got noteworthy performances from Keith Anderson and Bob AhSue.

Anderson, a freshman, won two of four 126-pound matches. He took a 6-2 decision over a Sacramento CC opponent, then lost 9-7 to a foe from Ohlone. In the consolation bracket, Anderson defeated a Butte opponent 12-2 before dropping a 6-4 verdict to a Grossmont grappler.

AhSue, ranked sixth in the state, won the heavyweight championship in the consolation bracket. After pinning a Santa Ana opponent, AhSue lost a 9-3 decision to Chabot's highly regarded Tom Thompson.

SHS Wins, But Mixon Is Halted

By CHUCK BUSTILLOS

The Ricky Mixon Show was practically cancelled Friday night in the Half Moon Bay High School gymnasium.

Carrying a better than 29-points per game average into last night encounter with the Cougars, Mixon, the county prep scoring leader, was held in check, netting only 16 while his teammates more than amply picked up the slack in running past Half Moon Bay, 68-47.

Mixon had a mere two buckets to his name at the half, and when he was benched early in the third quarter after a missed dunk-shot attempt, the Regents seemed a candidate for their fourth league defeat.

When Mixon left the game at 3:18 of the third quarter, Serramonte held a 34-26 lead. The lanky forward did not see any action for the remainder of the period.

Le Pacini

Bob Lurie Is Serious

One of the biggest local sports stories of the early year virtually was ignored by radio and television and given relatively little space by the newspapers — the Giants' signing of Bing Devine.

Devine, who will work slightly under General Manager Spec Richardson, is one of the best and most respected executives in baseball, and his entrance into the Giants' organization signals once again owner Bob Lurie's commitment to excellence. It's a first-class move for a first-class man who doesn't come without a high price tag, and fans and players alike now should be convinced that Lurie means to produce a winner.

Everybody knows that while television is a pain in the neck to the football fan because of the frequent commercial breaks, interference with scheduling, etc., it also is the medium which allows so many people to watch football games they ordinarily would not be able to see — and in the comfort of their living rooms.

I know that TV has its saving graces, but they apply only for the home viewer, who can at least get up during the commercials and go to the refrigerator or the toilet or beat up his wife, or, as I do, read an entire newspaper, several magazine articles, or a couple of chapters of a book. I've even written parts of this column while "watching" televised football games — and no cracks.

But, when you'are at a televised game, such as I was at the East-West game, crammed in with 72,000 people and unable to go anywhere during commercials except up the wall, and when it's an all-star game which tends to be long, anyway, because of a lot of passing; well then, you begin questioning whether ou might not have been better off entering a dance marathon contest and maybe having had the chance of at least winning a prize.

About the only things that saved the East riot from being a spectator's washout were the rushing and scoring records of Michigan fullback Russell Davis, who should have shared his Outstanding Offensive Player award with the East's offensive line (centers Charles Correal, Penn State, and Robert Shaw, Tennessee; and guards and tackles Mike Salzano, North Carolina, Randy Butler, Southern Mississippi; Eric Cunningham, Penn State; Jon Giesler, Michigan; and Keith Dorney, Penn State), and the defensive play for the West of local guy Frank Duncan, at safety.

Duncan, a former Jefferson High star now at San Francisco State, was in fact, I feel, the most impressive player on the West squad, despite the 56 points hung out by the East. There were times when it seemed like Duncan was the only West player getting in the way of any East players.

Had the West won, or come close, Duncan, rather than East defensive back Don Bessillieu, might have won the Outstanding Defensive Player Award.

Duncan, who was being watched proudly of Vic Rowen, his college coach, was only the third player from San Francisco State to ever make the Shrine game (the other two were former all-pro tackle and 49er assistant coach Floyd Peters and halfback Charley Fuller), and the first North Peninsula League grad ever to be so honored.

After setting an NPL record for pass receptions (39) in 1974 while a wide receiver with Jeff, he became exclusively a defensive back at College of San Mateo for two years, making All-Golden State Conference.

As a strong safety for S.F. State, he was accorded All-American Division II recognition, as well as being All-Far Western Conference.

Another Jeff grad involved in the post season games rush was Al Gaspar, who participated in the Holiday Bowl Game with Brigham Young University against Navy.

Gaspar made headlines in his own right this year as the first black athletic star at BYU. What made Gaspar's participation at the virtually 100 percent white school even more unique was that he isn't a Mormon.

Al, a 6-1, 245-pound tackle, transferred to BYU from College of San Mateo, and went on to be named to the All-Western Conference first team.

Has there ever been another NPL team that sent two former teammates to major college bowl games in the same season?

OTHER LOCAL NOTES: Ed De Martini, the award-winning photography instructor at Skyline College, is the same Ed DeMartini who was a star lineman at Galileo High School and with USC in the '50s.

Big Ed, an All-City with the Lions, grabbed a scholarship from the Trojans and subsequently played in the Rose Bowl games of 1952 and 1956.

Drafted by the old Chicago Cardinals, Ed decided that Chicago wasn't a nice place to live and eventually drifted into teaching.

He made it to Skyline in 1974 after doing amazing things with a student television program at — Jefferson High!

MISCELLANEOUS QUICK-QUIZ: 1. Name the backcourt man who played for an NCAA, NBA and ABA champion.

2. Who holds the record for playing in most consecutive hockey games?

3. What two athletes played in Madison Square Garden and Yankee Stadium in the same calendar year?

4. Name the city that has had the following franchises fail: Wave, Sandpipers, Jaws, Toros, Rockets, Lobos, Mariners, Conquistadors.

5. Name the famous 49er "initials backfield."

ANSWERS: 1. Tom Thacker; 2. Andy Hebenton (630 games); 3. Gene Conley and Dave DeBusschere, both of whom played major league and NBA basketball; 4. San Diego; 5. Y. A. Title, C. R. Roberts, J. D. Smith and R. C. Owens.

Sudden thought: Bob Lurie (see above) has, since he's taken control of the Giants, seen a better than 300 percent increase in attendance in just two seasons.

Sudden gripe: Why the NFL insists on declaring the leading defensive teams the ones who allow the least total yardage.

Whatever happened to the oldest, most standard criterion — fewest points allowed? If that doesn't tell the true story, what does?

Expansion of Oakland Gets Support

Expansion of Oakland Airport — even at the cost of future growth for San Francisco International — was approved Thursday night by the Airport Land Use Committee of the San Mateo County Regional Planning Committee.

The committee voted to support Oakland's appeal to the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board for a larger piece of the aviation business pie.

Similar support for expansion of Oakland's airport will be sought from the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors, according to staff members.

The action was seen by committee members as a step toward limiting future growth of San Francisco International, and therefore reducing the negative impacts of the airport on San Mateo County. The impact most complained of is noise.

San Mateo County Development Association executive Henry "Bud" Bostwick warned, however, that San Mateo County citizens might suffer "25 years from now" if too much business is funneled away to the East Bay.

Committee Chairman Arthur Lepore, a Millbrae council member who has been working for years to get San Francisco International to lessen its impacts, saw it a different way:

"I have no problem with this letter to the CAB," said Lepore. "Even with deregulation, San Francisco International is continuing to get a good share of the business.

Committee member Robert Norris of Redwood City, an airline pilot, moved to support the Oakland air service increase.

He said it probably will have little effect because "the airlines will go to Oakland only if the business is there." Increased activity at Oakland is in line with the regional airport plan developed by the Association of Bay Area Governments, he said.

Staff members said the Oakland application to the CAB asks an end to "dual certification" procedures now used.

Dual certification allows an airline to choose either San Francisco or Oakland airport when starting new service to the Bay Area. In some cases, the choice between San Francisco, Oakland or San Jose is allowed.

Oakland's application to the CAB claims this dual choice works to the benefit of San Francisco International, at the expense of needed growth in the East Bay.

The Oakland application claims that if the CAB were to specify that new air routes into the Bay Area must land at Oakland, the Alameda County facility could grab a larger share of business. San Mateo County airport noise foes have long sought this result.

Airport Land Use Committee staffers pointed out that there is little local governments can do to spread out airline operations among Bay Area airports. Supporting the Oakland application is one such action, they suggested.

"San Francisco International has positive effects on San Mateo County's economy and negative effects on its environment," commented county Assistant Planning Director David Hale.

In a following action, the committee voted to support the San Francisco Airports Commission's intent to restrict entry to SFIA by airlines whose planes do not meet 1985 noise standards.

United Airlines' William Ryan, regional director of public affairs, told the committee that enforcing federal noise rules, or altering their effective dates, probably is not within the committee's jurisdiction.

Norris replied that Ryan may be correct, but the action "would encourage new carriers to meet the noise standards."

PHS Asks Halt to Flood

Now is the time for pet owners, old and new, to prevent the flood of unwanted litters of kittens and puppies that soon will fill animal shelters across the nation, the Peninsula Humane Society reports. Each spring, the Humane Society's shelter at 12 Airport Blvd., San Mateo, is filled to capacity with unwanted kittens and puppies whose owners did not have the foresight to have the parent animal spayed or neutered.

Many of these unwanted animals must be destroyed humanely by animal welfare agencies throughout the country because there are simply not enough new homes available for them, a society spokesman said. The financial burden carried by all taxpayers for sheltering unwanted animals, euthanizing unwanted animals, and animal control funding, is increased by those pet owners who do not spay or neuter their pets, she added.

This can be prevented easily by having a pet spayed or neutered once it has reached six months of age. The operations, for both sexes of cats and dogs, are simple and safe and can be performed at many local low-cost spay and neuter clinics or veterinary hospitals, she said.

Cats are capable of breeding by the time they are from five to nine months of age. Their breeding season lasts from spring till fall and they may produce litters of from one to eight kittens. The gestation period for cats usually is 63 days.

Dogs reach puberty at between six to 12 months, depending on the breed. They can breed from two to three times a year, again depending on the type of dog. The gestation period for dogs is 63 days, and they can produce litters of from one to 16 pups, although the average litter size is three to six.

In addition to ending unwanted litters, spaying or neutering a pet will make it a healthier and more pleasant member of a family, the spokesman said. For more information on spaying or neutering a pet, contact the Humane Society's Low-Cost Spay and Neuter Clinic at 344-7643, for a free brochure.

The Indian

By STEVE McBEE

This week the school is rather in a state of confusion due to the cumbersome procedure of class registration. It is this week of the year in which students choose their new spring classes which may direct them for the remainder of their lives. The new classes being offered this semester are Sociology, Geography and "20th Century." "20th Century" will be taught by Bud Bresnahan. In this class, they study the events of this century; the stock markets, gangsters and assassinations.

The least-known club at Jefferson will be the most-known club at Berkeley — Jefferson's Model United nations. This year Jeff will be representing the views of Yugoslavia. For the past few years, membership in this club has been declining. This year we have about 12 members, compared to 15 last year. Although we are small, Jeff's Model U.N. has the most resolutions accepted from all the schools in California. This is the greatest and proudest accomplishment any school can achieve.

Jefferson's varsity basketball team also is achieving. To start it off it won its first four games of NPL play. First, the Tribe took South City in the opener 56-52. Then Oceana was the victim of superior play and lost to us, naturally. El Camino was no match for us and the Indians walloped the Colts 74-47. The next game was the biggest of the year. The Indians fought off Serramonte for a 69-66 victory.

Daryll Jackson is the major factor for our team and leads the league in scoring, with more than 27 points a game. He gets help from Bob Oller, Ernie Dupree, Ken Mackey, Richard Rodgers and the rest of the Indians.

Jeff's rally will be Jan. 26. The main attractions will include introduction of our soccer team, and our rowdy Pep Staff. After that, the senior class will sponsor a dance marathon from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. At 8 p.m., as the marathon continues, the floor will be open to everyone at a small price.

COMMENDED

DAY TIME

The 25th annual Fashion Show and Luncheon of the Westlake Catholic Women of Our Lady of Mercy Church will be held Feb. 10. "Silver Reminisce" will be in the Grand Ballroom of the Fairmont Hotel, with the guest entertainer to be Dennis Day, above. Tickets will be sold between 10 a.m. and noon, Jan. 27, in the Our Lady of Mercy Church Hall. For details call 756-7886.

Pledge Night By Sorority

Nu Sigma chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held its first meeting of January at the home of Mrs. Robert Samuelsen.

The cultural that evening was on "Home."

At the next meeting the sorority will give its traditional pledge ritual for their new rushee at the home of Mrs. Albert Baccei.

Dinner will follow at the Jade Dragon. Saturday evening, a social evening will be held with the husbands.

Square Dancing will be featured. Everyone is to take a box dinner.

'Music Marathon' Due at Westmoor

A "Music Marathon" at Westmoor High School will run 20 continuous hours from 4 p.m., Jan. 19 to noon Jan. 20. Music will be by the members of the music department and will go continuously in the Little Theater.

Tempo, the (E)nvolved Music Parents Organization, is sponsoring the marathon to help raise money for the many activities of the music department. The president, Mrs. Elelyn Donati and her board, are coordinating this project.

The marathon wil be open to the public from 4 p.m. to midnight Friday and 8 a.m. to noon Saturday, with a 50 cents donation for admission.

The Concert Band, the Stage Band, the Dixieland Band and solos and ensembles, along with Amy Johnson, featured vocalist, with the Jazz Band, will perform.

Jazz '79 is the theme Westmoor High School Jan. 23, when at 7:30 p.m. in the Little Theater the Stage Band and Dixieland Band will perform. The Dixieland Band received a Superior rating at the Reno Jazz Festival last year.

Student leaders Colin Price and Babbie Freiberg will direct some selections and Amy Johnson will be the featured vocalist.

The jazz band features a nine-man brass section and a six-member sax section up front. Three new band members in training for next year will play on several selections.

The music will include some of the latest jazz for big bands.

Admission will be by donation of $1.50 to help the band's expenses for its Reno trip. Senior citizens are admitted free.

Okay, it's quiztime!

- Who was the radio clown who created the role of the Texaco Fire Chief and according to his cap dispensed "gasoloon"?
- Who was the chick who sang solos on the TV show "Sing Along With Mitch"?
- What famous comedian created a character called Geraldine?
- In what city did the family in the radio and TV show "One Man's Family" reside?
- Psychologist Dr. Joyce Brothers won the top money on the "$64,000 Question" show on TV. What was her topic?

In case you've forgotten, here are the answers: Ed Wynn, Leslie Uggams, Flip Wilson, San Francisco, and boxing.

These facts and hundreds of others are recalled in a readable volume, "The Golden Years of Broadcasting" (Scribners, $22) by Robert Campbell, who already has won his laurels as a writer, composer and filmmaker.

The book is rich in nostalgia, recalling great shows that have appeared on NBC since it started to charm America in 1926. So here we meet once again with Eddie Canton and his wife Ida. We recall the feud between Jack Benny and Fred Allen. We hear the door to Benny's safe clang shut. Here we meet Uncle Miltie once more and learn that "Life Can Be Beautiful" and what happened to Ma Perkins and the troubled people in "The Guilding Light."

"The Golden Years of Broadcasting" was printed in 1976 and featured a foreward by Bob Hope, who recalls, "Radio was a special medium because everyone who was listening built his own fantasy, had his own illusion of what things looked like . . . It was all set in your mind. You imagined it your way. It was all an illusion, a marvelous illusion . . . Your imagination intensified with each show. Tuning in was like visiting and revisiting your own private fantasies. That was the beautiful thing about radio."

Hope appreciates television, too, but for a different reason. He calls it "the greatest therapy ever invented."

Of it he writes, "For many people, especially housewives, it's an all-day companion. They turn on that tube and go about their housework. Then the kids take over when they come home. Whoever rules the knob is the greatest. Who would have thought that one day we'd have a motion-picture theater right in your home."

Bob Hope seems to write for many Americans — actors, producers, directors, musicians and millions of listeners — when he says of broadcasting:

"It's amazing. I love it. And I'm fortunate to be part of the action."
